BOXLIGHT.com Introduces the MP-93i Projector
High Quality, Portable, Full-Featured Projector That's Easy on the Wallet

Poulsbo, Washington - Behind every successful business presenter is a great projector. Now, with the introduction of BOXLIGHT.com's new MP-93i projector, a high price tag is no longer an obstacle to delivering a winning presentation.

Portable, yet affordable, BOXLIGHT.com's MP-93i 0.9" polysilicon projector offers the latest technological innovations and features in a high quality unit that weighs only 9.8 lbs. It is an ideal projector for traveling presenters and those seeking advanced technology at an entry-level price.

With 700 ANSI lumens of brightness, it's possible to leave the lights on during presentations. Image details are crisp and clear straight from the computer as a result of true 1024x768 XGA (compressed 1280x1024 SXGA) technology. A manual zoom/focus makes this projector easy to use in rooms with variable conditions. The built-in remote laser pointer lets speakers draw attention to specific points in a presentation.

The MP-93i is truly a multipurpose, full-featured projector that offers room to grow. Multiple inputs/outputs allow users to connect several computers and peripheral systems (audio, video, monitors, control terminal) to the unit simultaneously.

For example, using the MP-93i's multiple computer outlets, two different presenters, each with their own computer, can be hooked-in at the same time. By adding a monitor to an output, presenters can track projected information without turning their backs to the audience, or plug in a second projector to improve visibility for those sitting in the back of a room. An audio output permits the addition of an external speaker system.

When it comes to delivering a memorable business presentation, BOXLIGHT.com's MP-93i projector levels the playing field by offering an affordable, high tech projector that is one of today's best values in presentation equipment.
